Thanks for all the prompt responses!

As the essential attendees all have replied and we have four options, I will go ahead and get this on our calendars for the earliest of these, Mon., Jan. 9 from 12:30–1:45 p.m. (Feel free to bring your lunch!) A Teams invitation will be sent shortly.

Again, wishing everyone a safe and enjoyable holiday!

Subject: Doodle Poll/ Coordinated Rulemaking

Season's Greetings Everyone!

Please complete the Doodle poll at [Ex. 6 Personal Privacy (PP)] at your earliest convenience but no later than c.o.b. Tues., January 3 for an initial conversation about how DRBC and EPA might proceed together with rulemaking to amend aquatic life uses and criteria for a portion of the Delaware Estuary. We are initially providing 75-minute time slots beginning on the half-hour from the afternoon of Monday, January 9, 2023 through early p.m. Thursday, January 12, 2023. Greg, perhaps you could let me know whether EPA has a preference/ limitation as between the Zoom and Teams platforms.

Unless you advise otherwise, DRBC will assume those in the “to” line of this email are essential participants and those in the “cc” line are optional participants and will schedule accordingly. I note that because Donna Woolf of DRBC set this up, she is listed as a participant, but she will not be attending. Please assume Donna’s availability represents that of all DRBC participants.

Finally, it would be helpful for you to give thought in advance to coordination options—i.e., collaboratively develop vs. jointly author/ issue/ conduct/ adopt—for each phase of the rulemaking process: Basis & Background; Public Process (NPRM, Public Hearings, Collection of Written Comment, Comment & Response Document); Rule Adoption. We should also consider timing of NEPA review, ESA compliance and OMB review.

I look forward to engaging in this conversation with you all in January. Meanwhile, best wishes for the holidays and the new year!

Sincerely,
Pam Bush
